The existing industry standards are appalling, with talent and artists receiving nowhere near their fair share of the earnings. Record labels and distributors unreasonably take up to 87% of profits, leaving the artists with as little as 13%.

TNMG employs a very wide range of consultants and coaches with countless years of experience in the music industry to help artists with their independent careers without forcing them to sign soul-reaping contracts and taking only modest fees. Furthermore, TNMG has established trusted relationships and contracts with various advisors, studios, and resources that will be available for use at discounted costs.
